I HEREBY STATE:

That I REQUEST AND AUTHORIZE Doctor _____
_____, graduated in Medicine and Surgery, with medical license number _____, to perform upon me a treatment known as PHOTOREJUVENATION that will be executed by the auxiliary staff
_____. The alternatives to said treatment are: _____.

I KNOW and ACCEPT the physician's professional training to perform this treatment.

The substances and machines involved have been authorized for use in aesthetic medicine, and show the CE brand and its corresponding sanitary registration number.

I CONFIRM that the treatment mentioned above has been fully explained to me by the physician in words I can understand, including typical risks involved, undesired effects, the risks specific to me, and also discomfort or, occasionally, pain I may feel with normal post-treatment. I have also been told about other options available in the market, together with pros and cons of each one. Taking this into account, I have chosen the treatment described above.

I have also been informed, in terms of probability, about the results of the procedure according to references from comparative scientific literature, and the professional's previous experience executing these procedures.

BRIEF EXPLANATION OF THE TREATMENT:

Non-ablative photorejuvenation with intense pulsed light is a contrast therapeutic alternative for the treatment of photoaged skin. It is based on the use of polychromatic or incoherent light emissions (not laser), optimized for the non-invasive treatment of multiple skin lesions typical of photoaging, such as epidermal pigmented lesions, superficial dermal lesions, vascular alterations such as couperosis (redness) or telangiectasia (small dilated blood vessels), and other skin texture alterations.

Procedure

The action mechanism of Pulsed light is triple, acting on pigmentation disorders, vascular lesions and the superficial dermis, for the purpose of improving texture and clinical appearance, inducing the remodeling of collagen, and enjoying a more normal, more luminous and softer skin. Unlike ablative photorejuvenation, the epidermis is not vaporized, so recovery is fast, and the amount of adverse effects and complications described in the literature is minimal.

Based on the process to treat, a variable amount of sessions will be required, usually around five. The patient must avoid exposure to the sun or to ultraviolet radiation a few weeks prior to the procedure, and use sunscreen with a high protection factor that guarantees said determinant. If you are under a medical treatment, you must let us know in case there might be some kind of contraindication.

The session lasts around 25-45 minutes, and, after it, a discreet redness is to be expected, which will normally not prevent you to resume your usual work and social activities.

I will use the eye protection glasses provided by the technician during the entire treatment.

Results

Virtually all patients treated experience a global improvement, and 90% show a significant, or very significant, improvement. In all symptoms treated, a beneficial effect is observed, the most relevant of which is in vascular and pigment disorders, like facial erythema and flushing, with an 86% improvement, telangiectasia, with an 85% improvement, and irregular pigmentation, with an 84% improvement.

Concerning the appearance and texture of skin, a significant 75% improvement, with a significant 49% decrease in the size of pores, and an 84% improvement of fine wrinkles are observed as well. In patients with concomitant inflammatory rosacea, 92% shows improvement and, in 42%, this improvement can be classified as extraordinary.

Side effects and complications

Despite the great individual variability, few side effects and complications have been recorded, and virtually all of them are insignificant; therefore, we can conclude that it is both a safe procedure, even on high phototypes, and comfortable since you won't need to take any leave from work or social activities. The main side effects and complications reviewed include, among others:

- Transient coloring disorders consisting of a slight redness in the treated area, which fades a few hours later, or darkening of lentigos and freckles, even those just visible with UV lamps, sometimes followed by desquamation.
- Transient erythema, usually mild and limited to the first 24 to 48 hours.
- In rare cases, blisters can occur, especially in tanned areas, which usually resolve favorably

RISKS INHERENT TO THE PATIENT AND HIS/HER PERSONAL CIRCUMSTANCES:

CONTRAINDICATIONS: Pregnancy, use of medication that increases photosensitization, diabetes and history of keloid scars, recent sun exposure, light intolerance.

I have been correctly informed, even in writing (information documents) and/or using images, about this treatment's characteristics: its fundamentals, the manner and details of its execution, its action mechanisms, its immediate effects, the process and evolution of the necessary supplementary treatments to observe in the following days, weeks or months, the cares and precautions to adopt in the following hours or days, the variability of the time necessary to fully recover; therefore, I acknowledge that no guarantee can be given to me as to the date when I can resume my regular activities (emotional, social, work and sports).

I ATTEST I have not left out or altered any data when showing my surgical medical history and records, specially those concerning allergies and diseases or personal risks.

The Medical History and results from tests performed on the patient don't advise against using the appropriate medical procedure when there isn't, a priori, any risks that may have determined the failure of the technique objectively considered, and which means to meet your expectations.

I RECOGNIZE that, during the treatment, unforeseen conditions may necessitate different procedures than those described above. Therefore, I hereby expressly authorize said procedures, including my transfer to a hospital center. In case of complications during the treatment, I authorize the Hospital to request the assistance they deem necessary from other specialists, in their best professional judgment.

I HAVE BEEN INFORMED that the number of sessions necessary to obtain the desired effect is only illustrative, being impossible to know the exact number of sessions that will be necessary in advance, because each patient's absorption/reaction is different. The efficacy of the result increases significantly with the use of the recommended topical products.

If, during treatment, the healthcare staff was accidentally exposed to my blood, according to the principles of good medical practice I have been informed of the need to perform the proper analytical determinations on my blood, related to potential pathologies of blood transmission, to adopt the most suitable preventive measures.

I AGREE to do my best to follow the doctor's instructions to the letter before, during and after the treatment mentioned above. I take responsibility for complying with post treatment measures recommended by the Hospital, as well as attending control visits suggested by the doctor.

I UNDERSTAND that the goal of the treatment is to improve my appearance, with the possibility that some imperfection remains and that the result may not be what I expected. In this sense, I have been informed that the aesthetic result of the treatment depends on factors like how easily you scar, and the formation or non-formation of keloids. I am aware that the medical field is not an exact science, and that absolute perfection cannot be guaranteed. I understand the result may not be as expected and acknowledge that I haven't been given any guarantee at all.

Medical action might not end in itself, and subsequent treatment action might be necessary to reach the goal you're consenting to.

The cost of the treatment includes several charges for the services provided. The total includes your doctor's fees and the cost of materials, equipment or product. The charges for this procedure don't include possible future costs for additional procedures of your choice, or that you require to review, optimize or complete your result. There may be additional charges due to complications arising from the treatment. Charges for secondary treatments concerning check-ups and charges that haven't been previously arranged will also be your responsibility. By signing the consent for this procedure, you acknowledge you have been informed about its risks and consequences and take responsibility for the medical decisions made, together with the economical costs of any future treatments.

I AUTHORIZE the taking of photographs and videos for an appropriate diagnostic evaluation, and for the control of the assessment and results. I also authorize the taking of photographs of the operated area for scientific, educational or clinical purposes, and I understand that their use is not a violation of privacy or confidentiality, rights to which I am entitled.

I KNOW my data will be treated in an automated manner, which I have authorized after my rights have been explained to me pursuant to the LOPD (Spanish Organic Act on Data Protection) in force: rights of access, rectification, cancellation and objection established by the Act, and after expressing I can address the Clinic in writing, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 8 of the Act about health-related data. With my signature, I give my express consent for my personal data to be handled by the CLINIC for their own purposes.

I am aware that my signature and this consent don't assume any kind of waiver to future claims, both clinical and legal. I am also aware that I can withdraw my signature from this consent at any time prior to the execution of the treatment.

I have clarified any doubts about everything that has been mentioned above, and I fully understand this CONSENT DOCUMENT, standing by each and all of its points; by signing the document, I ratify and consent to the execution of the treatment.
