INFORMED CONSENT DOCUMENT
TREATMENT OF SECONDARY CHEILOPLASTY OR REMOVAL OF GRANULOMAS

In observance of Act 41/2002, regulating patient's autonomy and rights and duties concerning information and clinical documents (BOE 15-11-02), we offer you, in writing and in an understandable manner, information about SECONDARY CHEILOPLASTY OR REMOVAL OF GRANULOMAS. However, said information has already been concisely and orally provided to you by the undersigned doctor, who also, and at your request, has addressed all your questions, as well as those related to the treatment. This document is just the graphic transcription of said information, to help you understand it and motivate a thoughtful and deliberate authorization.

It is important that you read this information carefully and in its entirety. Please sign or put your initials on every page, thus indicating that you have read and signed the consent document for the procedure recommended by your doctor.

I HEREBY STATE:

That I REQUEST AND AUTHORIZE Doctor _____
_____, graduated in Medicine and Surgery, with medical license number _____, to perform upon me a treatment known as SECONDARY CHEILOPLASTY OR REMOVAL OF GRANULOMAS, having chosen this instead of the alternatives, namely _____.

I KNOW and ACCEPT the physician's professional training to perform this treatment.

The substances and machines involved have been authorized for use in aesthetic medicine, and show the CE brand and its corresponding sanitary registration number.

I CONFIRM that the treatment mentioned above has been fully explained to me by the physician in words I can understand, including typical risks involved, undesired effects, the risks specific to me, and also discomfort or, occasionally, pain I may feel with normal post-treatment. I have also been told about other options available in the market, together with pros and cons of each one. Taking this into account, I have chosen the treatment described above.

I have also been informed, in terms of probability, about the results of the procedure according to references from comparative scientific literature, and the professional's previous experience executing these procedures.

BRIEF EXPLANATION OF THE TREATMENT:

It involves removing the unwanted product, or its reaction on the lips (granuloma) and their contouring to improve the way they look.

Under no circumstance, or with any technique, can we guarantee the total removal of the product or the granulomas, if there are any, since it is impossible to visualize and have access to the entire injected product, which is usually a fluid, and could have spread to inaccessible areas. It can also happen that, once the product is removed from an area, the residual product that could not be accessed during the first intervention migrates towards a reachable area and can be removed during a second intervention.

The product and its location will be previously detected through clinical exploration or an ultrasound.

We currently have three techniques to remove them:

- Laser Lysis: It is performed with a surgical or lipo laser: the product breaks due to the energy of the laser and then it is removed. It can only be used if we know the product injected beforehand, and if this is thermosoluble.
- Vaporization with CO2 Laser: The nodule is vaporized together with the product. It is indicated for tiny or hidden nodules.
- Surgical removal: It is the most used technique. It involves the surgical removal of granulomas or the product that can be reached with surgery.
- Local Infiltration of an Antidote or Anti-inflammatory: In case it is Hyaluronic acid.

What is secondary cheiloplasty for?

- Filling with permanent product: With time, a dissociation may occur between the labial mucosa (that ages) and the product (that remains intact, with the same volume), making the mouth look artificial or causing asymmetry and bulges.
- Filling with temporary product (hyaluronic acid): When the aesthetic result is not what is expected, and the person doesn't want to wait for its degradation, or it has been impossible to dissolve.
- Chronic inflammatory reaction of the body to a foreign product: it wraps it up and encapsulates it in the so-called granuloma, that the patient detects as small lumps deforming the lip, or as inflammation and hardening of the lip. They can cause pain, a feeling of tightness, itching and sometimes redness.

How is secondary cheiloplasty performed? What cares does secondary cheiloplasty require?

They are all performed with local anesthesia. Based on the indicated technique:

- Laser Lysis: The fiber is introduced until reaching the product, where the heat applied will break it down (just like it was injected), and then the fiber is extracted by compression through the passing channel. The lip will swell up for 7-15 days. Usually, several sessions of 2-4 months are necessary, separated by at least 2-3 months.
- Vaporization with CO2 Laser: Direct application of the laser heat on the nodule destroys it with high precision, barely damaging the surrounding tissues. There is no need to suture; however, by leaving the wound open, it will take longer to heal and it must close spontaneously. Therefore, a healing cream will be applied for 7-8 days. Usually, several sessions of 2-4 months are necessary, separated by at least 2-3 months. Reinstatement is immediate.
- Surgical removal: An incision shaped as a transverse or elliptic saw is performed along the lip, in the inner part of the mouth. All accessible product or granulomas are removed, and the labial mucosa is remodeled to fit the new volume. To finish, the edges are sutured. The purpose is for the lip to lose the least volume possible, but still recover its natural look. The lip swells significantly during the first week, and swells down gradually in the following weeks. It is recommended that, for the first three days, you eat soft food, either cold or warm, and gesticulate as little as possible. The resulting scar is not visible because it is performed in the inner part of the mucosa. The final result can be observed after 3-9 months.

Complications and risks of this intervention are rare, but they do exist and include: Asymmetry, numbness, tingling, reduction of mobility, abnormal scars, insufficient result, etc.

Contraindications:

- If the product cannot be accessed from the lip, or if it is very attached to the muscles, everything possible should be done to remove it without damaging the muscle fibers.
- If several attempts to remove it have already been performed, and despite that it persists, you must wait the necessary time for the tissues to recover.
- General surgical contraindications.

I have been correctly informed, even in writing (information documents) and/or using images, about this treatment's characteristics: its fundamentals, the manner and details of its execution, its action mechanisms, its immediate effects, the process and evolution of the necessary supplementary treatments to observe in the following days, weeks or months, the cares and precautions to adopt in the following hours or days, the variability of the time necessary to fully recover; therefore, I acknowledge that no guarantee can be given to me as to the date when I can resume my regular activities (emotional, social, work and sports).

I ATTEST I have not left out or altered any data when showing my surgical medical history and records, specially those concerning allergies and diseases or personal risks.

The Medical History and results from tests performed on the patient don't advise against using the appropriate medical procedure when there isn't, a priori, any risks that may have determined the failure of the technique objectively considered, and which means to meet your expectations.

I RECOGNIZE that, during the treatment, unforeseen conditions may necessitate different procedures than those described above. Therefore, I hereby expressly authorize said procedures, including my transfer to a hospital center. In case of complications during the intervention, I authorize the Hospital to request the assistance they deem necessary from other specialists, in their best professional judgment.

I HAVE BEEN INFORMED that the number of sessions necessary to obtain the desired effect is only illustrative, being impossible to know the exact number of sessions that will be necessary in advance, because each patient's absorption/reaction is different. Results are obtained with greater efficacy if the treatment performed is supplemented with other treatments that will improve its effects.

If, during treatment, the healthcare staff was accidentally exposed to my blood, according to the principles of good medical practice I have been informed of the need to perform the proper analytical determinations on my blood, related to potential pathologies of blood transmission, to adopt the most suitable preventive measures.

I AGREE to do my best to follow the doctor's instructions to the letter before, during and after the treatment mentioned above. I take responsibility for complying with post treatment measures recommended by the Hospital, as well as attending control visits suggested by the doctor.

I UNDERSTAND that the goal of the treatment is to improve my appearance, with the possibility that some imperfection remains and that the result may not be what I expected. In this sense, I have been informed that the aesthetic result of the treatment depends on factors like how easily you scar, and the formation or non-formation of keloids. I am aware that the medical field is not an exact science, and that absolute perfection cannot be guaranteed. I understand the result may not be as expected and acknowledge that I haven't been given any guarantee at all.

Medical action might not end in itself, and subsequent treatment action might be necessary to reach the goal you're consenting to.

The cost of the treatment includes several charges for the services provided. The total includes your doctor's fees and the cost of materials, equipment or product. The charges for this procedure don't include possible future costs for additional procedures of your choice, or that you require to review, optimize or complete your result. There may be additional charges due to complications arising from the treatment. Charges for secondary treatments concerning check-ups and charges that haven't been previously arranged will also be your responsibility. By signing the consent for this procedure, you acknowledge you have been informed about its risks and consequences and take responsibility for the medical decisions made, together with the economical costs of any future treatments.

I AUTHORIZE the taking of photographs and videos for an appropriate diagnostic evaluation, and for the control of the assessment and results. I also authorize the taking of photographs of the operated area for scientific, educational or clinical purposes, and I understand that their use is not a violation of privacy or confidentiality, rights to which I am entitled.

I KNOW my data will be treated in an automated manner, which I have authorized after my rights have been explained to me pursuant to the LOPD (Spanish Organic Act on Data Protection) in force: rights of access, rectification, cancellation and objection established by the Act, and after expressing I can address the Clinic in writing, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 8 of the Act about health-related data. With my signature, I give my express consent for my personal data to be handled by the CLINIC for their own purposes.

I am aware that my signature and this consent don't assume any kind of waiver to future claims, both clinical and legal. I am also aware that I can withdraw my signature from this consent at any time prior to the execution of the treatment.

I have clarified any doubts about everything that has been mentioned above, and I fully understand this CONSENT DOCUMENT, standing by each and all of its points; by signing the document, I ratify and consent to the execution of the treatment.
