INFORMED CONSENT DOCUMENT FOR CARE THROUGH TELEMEDICINE SERVICES

In observance of Act 41/2002, regulating patient's autonomy and rights and duties concerning information and clinical documents (BOE 15-11-02), we offer you, in writing and in an understandable manner, information about CARE THROUGH TELEMEDICINE SERVICES. However, said information has already been concisely and orally provided to you by the undersigned doctor, who also, and at your request, has addressed all your questions, as well as those related to the treatment. This document is just the graphic transcription of said information to help you understand it and motivate a thoughtful and deliberate authorization.

Please sign or put your initials on every page, thus indicating that you have read them, and sign the consent document for the procedure recommended by your doctor.

I HEREBY STATE:

That Doctor _____
has explained to me that TELEMEDICINE involves the use of electronic communication to allow physicians from different locations to share individual medical information with their patients in order to improve their care. Electronic communication means the use of interactive telecommunications equipment that includes, at a minimum, audio and video equipment that enables a two-way, real-time interactive communication between the patient and the physician. An originating site is the location of the beneficiary (patient). The distant site is where the doctor is at the time of the consultation. The information may be used for diagnosis, treatment, follow-up and/or education. The electronic systems used will incorporate network and software security protocols to protect the confidentiality of patient identification and imaging data, and will include measures to safeguard health data and to ensure their integrity against intentional or unintentional corruption.

I understand that, as with any medical procedure, there are expected benefits and potential risks associated with the use of telemedicine that I need to know.

Since this type of medicine may be different than the consultations I am used to, it is important that I understand and agree with the following statements:

1. The doctor will be at a location different than mine.
2. I will be informed if additional staff, aside from my doctor, will be present, so I can grant my permission for said staff to be present or assess my medical history.
3. The telematic consultation will be recorded in my digital history, including the doctor's recommendations.
4. I understand and hereby authorize the use of the _____ platform as a means to give and receive medical information about my treatment in the same way as if it was an in-person consultation.
5. I understand that the use of the _____ platform is only intended for telemedicine consultations and remote medical care.
6. I agree to send my doctor accurate information through the _____ platform or by email.
7. I understand that I have the option to reject the telemedicine service at any time without this affecting my right to receive medical care or treatments in the future or running the risk of losing the benefits of telemedicine.

The expected benefits include the following:

- It improves access to medical care by enabling a patient to remain at home while receiving medical attention or health advice.
- It enables more efficient medical evaluations and management.
- It allows you to obtain digital medical prescriptions and request digital examinations and/or supplementary tests and medical certificates, which are valid and ready to use.
- It provides continuous follow-up of your health condition from the comfort of your home.
- It reduces the costs and risks of traveling to get medical care.
- Given the current situation of the COVID-19 pandemic, this type of care is recommended for particularly vulnerable patients who cannot attend in-person visits.

Potential risks include, but are not limited to:

- In rare cases, the information provided may not be sufficient (e.g., poor resolution of images) to allow for appropriate medical decision-making by the physician.

- Delays in medical evaluation/treatment could occur due to deficiencies or failures of the electronic equipment and/or communication systems.
- In rare cases, security protocols can fail, causing a breach of privacy of personal medical information.
- In rare cases, a lack of access to complete and/or accurate medical records or information may result in adverse drug or allergic reactions, or in other judgment errors.
- There are no guarantees that the teleconsultation will eliminate the need to consult a doctor in person.

The purpose of this information is for the patient to know the characteristics of this medical service in detail and make the decision, freely and voluntarily, to authorize or reject the telemedicine treatment. Therefore, by signing this form, I understand and agree with the following:

1. That I may expect the anticipated benefits from the use of telemedicine in my medical care, but, as with in-person consultations, no results can be guaranteed or ensured.
2. That the laws that protect the privacy and security of my medical information also apply to telemedicine, and that no information obtained in the use of telemedicine that identifies me will be disclosed to third parties without my written consent.
3. That I have the right to withhold or withdraw my consent to the use of telemedicine in the course of my care at any time, without this affecting my right to future care or treatments.
4. That a variety of alternative methods of medical care may be available to me, and that I may choose one or more of these at any time. My doctor has explained the alternatives to my satisfaction.

I KNOW my data will be treated in an automated manner, which I have authorized after my rights have been explained to me pursuant to the GDPR in force: rights of access, rectification, cancellation and objection established by the Act, and after expressing I can address _____, responsible for the management of data, in writing, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 8 of the Act about health-related data. With my signature, I give my express consent for my personal data to be handled by the clinic for their own purposes.

I have clarified any doubts about everything that has been mentioned above, and I fully understand this CONSENT DOCUMENT ABOUT CARE THROUGH TELEMEDICINE SERVICES, standing by each and all of its points; by signing EVERY PAGE of the document IN DUPLICATE, I ratify and consent to the use of telemedicine in my medical care about which I have been previously informed and for which I have given my consent.
