INFORMED CONSENT DOCUMENT FOR TREATMENT WITH BOTULINUM TOXIN FOR HYPERHIDROSIS

In observance of Act 41/2002, regulating patient's autonomy and rights and duties concerning information and clinical documents (BOE 15-11-02), we offer you, in writing and in an understandable manner, information about TREATMENT WITH BOTULINUM TOXIN FOR HYPERHIDROSIS. However, said information has already been concisely and orally provided to you by the undersigned doctor, who also, and at your request, has addressed all your questions, as well as those related to the treatment. This document is just the graphic transcription of said information, to help you understand it and motivate a thoughtful and deliberate authorization.

It is important that you read this information carefully and in its entirety. Please sign or put your initials on every page, thus indicating that you have read and signed the consent document for the procedure recommended by your doctor.

I HEREBY STATE:

That I REQUEST AND AUTHORIZE Doctor _____
_____, graduated in Medicine and Surgery, with medical license number _____, to perform upon me a treatment known as BOTULINUM TOXIN FOR HYPERHIDROSIS, having chosen this instead of the alternatives, namely _____.

I KNOW and ACCEPT the physician's professional training to perform this treatment.

The substances and machines involved have been authorized for use in aesthetic medicine, and show the CE brand and its corresponding sanitary registration number.

I CONFIRM that the treatment mentioned above has been fully explained to me by the physician in words I can understand, including typical risks involved, undesired effects, the risks specific to me, and also discomfort or, occasionally, pain I may feel with normal post-treatment. I have also been told about other options available in the market, together with pros and cons of each one. Taking this into account, I have chosen the treatment described above.

I have also been informed, in terms of probability, about the results of the procedure according to references from comparative scientific literature, and the professional's previous experience executing these procedures.

BRIEF EXPLANATION OF THE INTERVENTION:

It consists of the infiltration of small amounts of highly-diluted botulinum toxin in the area affected with hyperhidrosis. This product inhibits neuromuscular transmission and, consequently, blocks the excessive production of sweat. As with any medication, it is important to point out that you can't always block sweating completely. Importantly, botulinum toxin has been used for many years in Ophthalmology and Neurology for the treatment of strabismus, blepharospasm and muscle spasms, among other pathologies.

The treatment is usually performed in one single session. Normally, a check-up is performed 2 weeks after the initial treatment to correct any irregularities left, after which it is not recommended to inject the area again until a minimum of 12 weeks after the procedure. The infiltration is made with a very fine needle, and it is virtually painless. The effect becomes apparent approximately on the 3rd-6th day, and is (usually) completed within 15 days; it lasts between 4 and 6 months.

Duration of Treatment: 20-30 minutes.

I UNDERSTAND that the goal of the treatment is to improve underarm excessive sweating, with the possibility that some imperfection remains and that the result may not be what I expected. In this sense, I have been informed that the result of the treatment depends on factors like occurrence of reactions to the product. I am aware that the medical field is not an exact science, and that absolute perfection cannot be guaranteed. I understand the result may not be as expected and acknowledge that I haven't been given any guarantee at all.

GENERAL RISKS:

I ACCEPT that there may be RISKS AND COMPLICATIONS described by medical science as inherent to this treatment. Some of the main risks that have been explained to me include:

Disadvantages: Microinjections can be, at most, unpleasant. Small hematomas may occur, which will spontaneously disappear a few days later. Unfortunately, the excessive sweating blocking effect is not final, and, if the patient wants to extend this therapy's effects, he/she will have to regularly undergo sessions previously arranged with his/her physician.

Since botulinum toxin also affects transmission of the motor end plate, executing the hyperhidrosis treatment in areas like the hands may mean a transient decrease of the muscular function of some of the muscle structures responsible for fingers motility. This is not a desirable effect, but sometimes can't be prevented; it is always transient and the most likely to occur (within rare occurrences) is loss of hands "grasping" function.

As indicated above, it is not a permanent treatment. In general, infiltrations must be performed twice a year, or with the frequency determined by the physician, given the specific patient's circumstances and characteristics.

Alternative Treatment: An alternative method may be not to treat the areas amenable to treatment or surgery. There are possible risks and complications associated with alternative kinds of treatments.

I have also been informed about the possibility of:

- Risks and complications common to any aesthetic treatment, including allergic reactions to the substance used (usually mild, resolving with appropriate treatment or even without it), hematomas, edemas or inflammation that will usually resolve in a short period of time without the need to be treated.
- Risks and complications specific to this treatment, that have been explained to me and that I have accepted.

I have been correctly informed, even in writing (information documents) and/or using images, about this treatment's characteristics: its fundamentals, the manner and details of its execution, its action mechanisms, its immediate effects, the process and evolution of the necessary supplementary treatments to observe in the following days, weeks or months, the cares and precautions to adopt in the following hours or days, the variability of the time necessary to fully recover; therefore, I acknowledge that no guarantee can be given to me as to the date when I can resume my regular activities (emotional, social, work and sports).

I ATTEST I have not left out or altered any data when showing my surgical medical history and records, specially those concerning allergies and diseases or personal risks.

The Medical History and results from tests performed on the patient don't advise against using the appropriate medical procedure when there isn't, a priori, any risks that may have determined the failure of the technique objectively considered, and which means to meet your expectations.

I RECOGNIZE that, during the treatment, unforeseen conditions may necessitate different procedures than those described above. Therefore, I hereby expressly authorize said procedures, including my transfer to a hospital center. In case of complications during the treatment, I authorize the Hospital to request the assistance they deem necessary from other specialists, in their best professional judgment.

I HAVE BEEN INFORMED that the amount of medication necessary to obtain the desired effect is only illustrative, being impossible to know the exact amount of medication that will be necessary in advance, because each patient's absorption/reaction is different. Results are obtained with greater efficacy if the treatment performed is supplemented with other treatments that will improve its effects.

If, during treatment, the healthcare staff was accidentally exposed to my blood, according to the principles of good medical practice I have been informed of the need to perform the proper analytical determinations on my blood, related to potential pathologies of blood transmission, to adopt the most suitable preventive measures.

I AGREE to do my best to follow the doctor's instructions to the letter before, during and after the treatment mentioned above. I take responsibility for complying with post treatment measures recommended by the Hospital, as well as attending control visits suggested by the doctor.

I UNDERSTAND that the goal of the treatment is to improve my appearance, with the possibility that some imperfection remains and that the result may not be what I expected. In this sense, I have been informed that the aesthetic result of the treatment depends on factors like how easily you scar, and the formation or non-formation of keloids. I am aware that the medical field is not an exact science, and that absolute perfection cannot be guaranteed. I understand the result may not be as expected and acknowledge that I haven't been given any guarantee at all.

Medical action might not end in itself, and subsequent treatment action might be necessary to reach the goal you're consenting to.

The cost of the treatment includes several charges for the services provided. The total includes your doctor's fees and the cost of materials, equipment or product. The charges for this procedure don't include possible future costs for additional procedures of your choice, or that you require to review, optimize or complete your result. There may be additional charges due to complications arising from the treatment. Charges for secondary treatments concerning check-ups and charges that haven't been previously arranged will also be your responsibility. By signing the consent for this procedure, you acknowledge you have been informed about its risks and consequences and take responsibility for the medical decisions made, together with the economical costs of any future treatments.

I AUTHORIZE the taking of photographs and videos for an appropriate diagnostic evaluation, and for the control of the assessment and results. I also authorize the taking of photographs of the treated area for scientific, educational or clinical purposes, and I understand that their use is not a violation of privacy or confidentiality, rights to which I am entitled.

I KNOW my data will be treated in an automated manner, which I have authorized after my rights have been explained to me pursuant to the LOPD (Spanish Organic Act on Data Protection) in force: rights of access, rectification, cancellation and objection established by the Act, and after expressing I can address the Clinic in writing, notwithstanding the provisions of Section 8 of the Act about health-related data. With my signature, I give my express consent for my personal data to be handled by the CLINIC for their own purposes.

I am aware that my signature and this consent don't assume any kind of waiver to future claims, both clinical and legal. I am also aware that I can withdraw my signature from this consent at any time prior to the execution of the treatment.

I have clarified any doubts about everything that has been mentioned above, and I fully understand this CONSENT DOCUMENT, standing by each and all of its points; by signing the document, I ratify and consent to the execution of the treatment.
